

After Eden: Cain, Abel and a Family's Continuing Story

Read with us. Watch the complete release:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=T3W03QYPHYo>

What happens after Eden?

Our new animated Bible episode returns to the first family after Eden. Cain and Abel's conflict is not treated as an isolated scene: Genesis continues through the family's generations toward Noah. We invite you to watch the eight-minute episode, then read Genesis 4-5 for yourself.

Let Scripture carry the story

The episode dramatizes Genesis 4:1-5:32, using all 58 verses in the Berean Standard Bible. Narrator orientation and the next-time preview are editorial framing, not additional Scripture. The words of the passage remain distinct from the animation that helps us follow them.

What the pictures can and cannot tell us

The characters, clothing, landscape and movement are artistic interpretation. They are not a verified archaeological reconstruction. The episode makes no claim about the nature of Cain's mark, the identity of his wife, Nod's exact location, the murder weapon or the mechanism of the offerings' reception. Nor does it invent a mechanism for Enoch's departure.

Read the generations carefully

As you move from Genesis 4 into Genesis 5, keep Cain's and Seth's lineages distinct. Notice the stated ages without turning them into invented dates. What do you hear when you read the whole movement rather than stopping at the brothers' conflict? The story's continuation matters, and the next episode remains a future work rather than a public release.

Source notes

Primary text: Berean Standard Bible, Genesis 4:1-5:32; berean.bible and Bible Hub's BSB Genesis 4 and 5. BSB is public domain. Research includes Kenneth A. Mathews, Genesis 1-11:26, New American Commentary, through Roger's licensed Logos library. No substantial commentary quotation is reproduced. Original AI-assisted MMAB artwork and synthetic character voices are under human editorial direction. General teen/adult audience; no graphic injury.

All our teaching remains free. Voluntary support: ko-fi.com/modernmindancientbook